Annexation Ordinance Will Likely Be Offered in Assembly.

QUESTION OF MORE INTEREST

Howard Holland May Manage Greensboro—Personals and Briefs.

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, No. 112 Hull Street.

The Assembly on Friday night of this week will very probably deal with the annexation question. Great pressure is being brought to bear upon the members of the Council at this time and the consolidation of Manchester and Richmond seems but a few months distant.

Mayor's Bridge will be rebuilt and cars will be run over it. This is a certainty, for already it is understood by citizens in a position to know, that contracts have been let for the strengthening of the present structure. Whether or not this means that the cars will be switched from Seventh Street, where they now turn from Hull Street, and will take a straight course down Hull Street, is, of course, a matter of conjecture.

The question of a new bridge on the present site of Mayor's Bridge seems to be the only drawback to the scheme to merge the two cities. Business men are clamoring for annexation and officeholders are working against it.

An ordinance will likely be offered this week looking to the annexation of the two cities. The opinion of the Supreme Court of Virginia, giving to Richmond contiguous territory has aroused great interest in the subject of annexation in Manchester.

Bridge Being Built.

The work on the bridge over the Southern Railway tracks near Belle Isle is progressing rapidly. Through the persistent efforts of Assemblyman W. D. Ferguson, of the Fourth Ward, this bridge was ordered built. In the past employees of the Old Dominion Iron and Nail Works had to scale a steep wall or walk several squares out of their way in order to get to their work.

When the bridge is finished, the workmen, who live at Sanderson or in the upper end of Manchester, can cross the railroad tracks and enter directly into the works. It is a great convenience, and the Councilmen appreciate the courtesy of the Southern Railroad in erecting the bridge.

May Manage Greensboro Team

Mr. Howard Holland, a very well known and popular young man of the city, will, in all probability, manage the Greensboro team in the Carolina State League next year. He played ball in that league and is a favorite with all the cities—Charlotte, Greensboro, S. C., and Spartanburg, Raleigh, Winston and Greensboro, N. C.

For a number of years Mr. Holland played baseball in Virginia. As an outfielder he did fine work, and last season in the Cotton States League he batted over three hundred. He was born and reared in Swansboro, and is a thorough student of baseball and football.

For the Mayor.

Mayor Maurice will have to deal with a number of unpleasant and two disorderly characters this morning. Officer Waymank ran into eleven negroes who were "trailing the bones" on the railroad Saturday night and he arrested the crowd.

A few minutes afterwards Officer Moore arrested a white man on Seventh Street. The man had been very disorderly in a saloon. After being locked up for half an hour or more he was sufficiently sobered to leave the station house and hunt his home. The other characters didn't amount to much.

Personals and Briefs.

An "Empty Stocking Club" has been formed in the city. All the poor children will be given a present on Christmas from the money raised by this club. The funeral of Mr. Stanley Ford took place from his home on Buchanan Street yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment was made in Mt. Vernon Cemetery. Mr. Ford was very popular in the city. He was but twenty-four years of age. He is survived by his wife and two small children.

Real estate sales for the week have created considerable interest in the city. There are several important sales to take place.

Mr. Ernest H. Wells, attorney-at-law, who has been sick for some time, has fully recovered, and is now able to attend to his practice.

DEDICATION OF RICHMOND CHURCH FOR ADVENTISTS

NEW SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH AND ITS PASTOR, ELDER H. J. FARMAN.

Interesting Exercises Held Yesterday Morning and Afternoon—Daughter of Pastor First Person to be Married in New Building.

The dedicatory services of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, located on Thirty-third Street, between Leigh and Clay Streets, took place yesterday morning and again last night, with imposing ceremonies. A large concourse of members and friends of the church gathered to witness the ceremonies and to take part in the services. Elder H. J. Farmar, pastor, presided at the dedicatory services in the morning at 11 o'clock, basing his theme on Ex. 23: "Let them make me a sanctuary, that I may dwell among them." The services were continued at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when Elder H. J. Farmar, of Petersburg, preached to an appreciative audience from Matthew 23:4. Elder E. W. Farnsworth preached again at 8 o'clock to a large and appreciative audience, taking his text from the second chapter of Daniel.

The report of the treasurer, Mr. O. F. Dart, given in the morning, showed that the building and furnishings cost $170,000. Of this amount Mr. James Gorgett, now deceased, gave $2,500, and Mrs. Gorgett $500. To this the church and friends added $20,000, leaving a small debt of $23,000, yet to be raised.

One of the interesting features of the day was the marriage of Miss Clara L. Farnsworth, the daughter of the pastor, which occurred at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the new church. The groom was Mr. R. Courten, of New Jersey, who will make his home here in the future. A large number of friends of the couple were present to bid them good-speed on their matrimonial venture.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Courten took the train on a wedding tour to Norfolk.

History of the Work.

The history of the work of Seventh Day Adventists in the State of Virginia began in 1872. Late in that year Elders J. O. Corliss and E. B. Lane came to the Shenandoah Valley and began a series of meetings in and near New Market, the present headquarters of their work in the State, which resulted in the establishment of a church at that place, and later in adjoining counties. As the years passed by the work extended to the eastern part of the State, and it was in 1895 that Elders W. A. McCutchan and J. P. Nott conducted a series of meetings in a tent located near Twenty-fifth and Clay Streets, this city.

The result of this meeting was the organization of the Richmond church on the 12th of October of the same year. Previous to the organization in the north-east corner of Twenty-fifth and Clay Streets was purchased by James Gorgett. He afterwards deeded it to the Richmond church of Seventh Day Adventists, with certain provisions. It was in this building that the church was organized. Since its organization the services of the church were conducted in this building until the year 1894. In this year, by the consent of Mrs. Gorgett, who had a life interest in the investment under the provisions of the deed, and of the Richmond church, the property was sold, with the purpose and intention, however, that the proceeds of the sale would be used in the erection of an edifice for the permanent worship of the congregation, on some lot to be chosen for that purpose.

Mrs. Gorgett not only manifested a willingness to relinquish her life interest in the funds from the sale of the church property but also augmented this fund by the handsome gift of $50 towards the purchase of a lot on which to erect the new building. After much careful investigation for a new location, the present site was secured.

The other members of the Richmond church have taken a lively interest and worked faithfully to the end of getting a house of worship. The Virginia Conference, consistent with other calls, assisted in raising some funds for the same purpose.

Just about a year ago plans were agreed upon, and work begun on the church, and with the exception of the seating, was completed in June of the present year.

On account of the summer campaign in tent efforts, the arrangement for dedication of the church was postponed until the present time.

JOB TOO MUCH FOR THIS POLICEMAN

Another "Billy" Idle and Situation Is Becoming Serious—More Men Needed.

S. D. Morgan, known to his friends as "Pierpont" Morgan, yesterday handed in his checks as one of the new policemen, declaring that he "wouldn't keep the job at $150 a month." The captain of his station offered him the best beat in Richmond if he would stay on the force, but Morgan had had enough, and vehemently declined to continue as one of the guardians of the city.

Morgan makes the sixth of the new policemen to resign. F. E. Flannery having resigned on Saturday. Six resignations of the new men in nine days is a record, and the end is not yet, as it is said that more are contemplating a change to other fields and pastures new. The situation is rather serious, from the viewpoint of the police department. With the resigning of the new territory, recently added to the city's limits, made necessary coupled with the increasing shortage in men to cover the beats, the situation, which was at first ludicrous, now appears in a serious light.

The weather has been warm and fair, and has afforded the men full opportunity to rest their desires for violating the billy under the most favorable circumstances. When snow, sleet and sleet cover the streets and the cold northeast breeze freezes the coats to the backs of the men, when there is no protection from a stormy sky and little shelter from the winds that blow, what will be the situation then? That is the question being asked.

What to do to induce the new men to stick is fast becoming a problem, and it looks as if the Police Commission must spend their time seeking new men to the force as fast as the old ones resign.

An ordinance to raise the salaries of policemen ten per cent. is now before the Finance Committee for its consideration. The police are very hopeful of its successful issue, and it is likely that it will be passed as an extra inducement to prospective policemen.

WERE TERRIFIED BY EXPLOSIONS

Women Fought Way to Car Door and Leaped Into Street.

Terrified by the shock of a rapid succession of explosions from beneath the car on which they were riding last night, the women passengers of a Broad Street car fought their way to the door and jumped, with imminent danger to themselves, from the moving car. The motorist, seeing the danger to his passengers, who were beyond all control, brought the car to a sudden standstill halfway between the block west of Foushee Street, and the people made a hasty exit. The cause of the detonations was soon discovered.

All the trouble was caused by the small boy making merry before his tiny revolver, suddenly deeming that the street belonged to him a month before the dawn of Christmas. Four boys, the oldest not being above fourteen years, Abraham Weinstein, of 118 West Marshall Street, Lewis Raymond, 22 North Adams Street, John O'neal, of 212 West Broad Street, and a boy named Bokler, of 218 West Broad Street, had each held a number of torpedoes from Bishop's store, on Adams Street, they claimed, and placed them on the street car tracks. The explosions were terrific, and rebounded for several blocks. Four cars—two Broad and Twenty-fifth Street cars, a Broad and Main car and a Laurel Street car, following rapidly behind each other, were brought to a standstill by the explosions.

The crews of the cars soon saw where the difficulty lay, and two fleeing figures gave them their cue. Policemen Thurman, of the bicycle corps, rode up and caught two, Weinstein and Raymond, kneeling near the track, evidently preparing to lay some more torpedoes. He captured them, and handed them over to Policeman Schief, who escorted them to the Second Police Station. There a charge of disorderly on the street was laid against them.

Mr. Weinstein appeared soon after the arrest of his son, and bailed the two prisoners for their appearance in Police Court this morning.
